Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

A more active and vigorous weather pattern moves in Wednesday as several strong systems move through the region the remainder of the week.

Eureka Weather:

High pressure will bring warm and dry weather today with some coastal and inland valley low clouds and fog, rain, mountain snow and a return of cooler temperatures are expected from mid to late week.

Reno Weather:

High pressure near the West Coast will keep above average temperatures and generally light winds through tonight. A moderate winter storm will bring gusty winds, snow and rain to the region Wednesday evening through Thursday. Another weak system is possible Friday night, before the ridge rebuilds over the West with warming temperatures into early next week.

Sacramento Weather:

Expect dry weather with near record high temperatures today and wetter and cooler weather Wednesday into Friday.

San Francisco Weather:

Record warm temperatures are possible once again today. However, a significant change in the weather is expected to begin on Wednesday as an approaching storm system brings much cooler temperatures and increasing chances of rain to the forecast area. Unsettled weather conditions will continue Thursday and Friday then dry with a gradual warming trend for the weekend continuing into the first part of next week.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

High pressure will continue to dominate the region today resulting in above normal daytime high temperatures as well as early morning fog. A storm system will impact Central California Wednesday and Thursday bringing mountain snow valley rain and cooler temperatures. Dry weather returns Friday and continues through the weekend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Hot and dry weather will continue through Tuesday due to high pressure and weak offshore flow. A trough of low pressure will bring cooler weather for mid to late week with a chance of rain on Wednesday and Thursday. A warming trend is likely for next weekend with well above normal temperatures possible by early next week as high pressure and offshore flow returns.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Expect a very warm and dry day with near record high temperatures in some locations. On Wednesday an approaching trough of low pressure will bring much stronger onshore flow with strong gusty southwest to west winds in the mountains and deserts cooling and increasing clouds. For Wednesday night and Thursday the trough of low pressure will move inland through California bringing cooling to near average temperatures and a chance of showers along and west of the mountains with greatest precipitation amounts in the mountains and much less elsewhere. Dry with a slow warming trend for Friday through Sunday. For next Monday much warmer with gusty Northeast winds near the coastal foothills with stronger high pressure aloft near the West Coast and weak offshore lower level flow.

Southeast California Weather:

Very strong upper level high pressure will bring much above normal temperatures to the region today and again on Wednesday with many lower deserts approaching or even exceeding 90 degrees. Some minor relief will arrive on Thursday and Friday as low pressure moves inland into the great basin but temperatures will then likely rebound well up into the 80s during the upcoming weekend and into early next week as very strong ridging rebuilds back over the region.
